

We're home working

Following on from the recommendations outlined by the UK government on Monday 16th March, I just wanted to share some decisions that we've made in the past 48 hours.

The VCA team will work from home for at least the next 15 days to ensure that the team are isolated and the company can continue to operate safely with flexibility.

We are fortunate that we are able to continue working, our aim is to work at full capacity for as long as the current business conditions allow, to support all our clients in these challenging times. All the designers have been set up with home machines with access to all our internal systems, emails, Basecamp, Skype and VOIP.

Our digital team are here to support client websites and increased social media activity and have a dedicated support protocol for all clients. We're also happy to help non-clients wherever possible.

All contact details remain unchanged (direct lines) and you can also DM us through social media which will be constantly monitored.

It's a time to get creative, keep positive, keep our minds healthy, support the vulnerable and keep our loved ones healthy.

Be safe, be vigilant, be well,

Thank you for your continued support as ever,
